URBAN PLANNING ADVISORS

WinovateNYC

Short Description

The offshore wind industry will experience exponential growth in the next decade. Expansion could include significant opportunities for New York City's disadvantaged communities in the innovation and research sector. Without a plan, however, these opportunities will be missed and communities overlooked. This Phase I effort will result in a Tactical Framework Report and Outreach (framework and recommendations) for those communities to be core contributors and participants in the growth of the offshore wind industry.
