

Air Pollution on the Wind River Reservation

Wildfire Pollution

- Infiltrates buildings, schools, and homes, and can lead to air-quality that is just as bad as external air-quality
- Rural and tribal communities have fewer sensors to warn them about poor air quality and older buildings.

Health Impacts

Early childhood exposure can lead to long-term health outcomes such as asthma, chronic heart and lung disease, and premature death.

We also find:

- Reduced test scores in schools
- Higher absenteeism
- Lower productivity
- Greater impact in low income areas

