The Why

Low-income households face a disproportionately higher energy burden 3x higher compared to non-low-income households. Addressing climate change in the Affordable Housing real estate industry is not only crucial for the sector's success and stability but also for the overall well-being of society and the planet. By adopting sustainable practices, promoting climate resilience, and reducing carbon emissions, the Affordable Housing industry can be a vital part of the solution in combating climate change and creating a more sustainable future.
