Technical Assistance Request

While we believe we have a team in place to implement the proposed solution, we recognize that expanded access to technical resources will enhance our product and accelerate its development. To this end, we could use technical assistance from experts in generative AI, predictive AI, and business development.

The generative AI and predictive AI developers will be supporting the implementation of a novel site modeling approach, as well as AI-based chatbots.

The business development experts will help us formulate and execute a strategy on bringing the product to market including market segmentation, deeper consumer studies, value proposition communication, pricing, product placement, identifying critical recruitment needs, and capital raising.
