

Embarking on a clean transportation future by electrifying NYC commuter vans

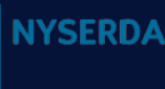

Team Name: Clean Transit Access Program (CTAP)

Lead: Dollaride is a clean transportation project developer focussed on deploying clean energy projects and zero-emission fleets in disadvantaged communities.

In partnership with the New York State Energy Research & Development Authority (NYSERDA), alongside BlocPower, Elemental Excelerator, and Empire State Development (“ESD”), Dollaride launched the Clean Transit Access Program (CTAP). The program aims to directly benefit NYC commuter van drivers, which is a community of small business owners most vulnerable to the high costs, legal penalties, and policy pressures associated with New York’s clean energy transition.
